Intro

The Trevi Group is a global leader in underground engineering, combining traditional methods with technology to address global infrastructure needs.

The challenge

Trevi relied heavily on petty cash and corporate credit cards to manage travel spending, particularly for international trips. Managing this across multiple currencies was a significant challenge. During a 2019 restructure, all administrative and financial processes were digitised to save time and money. 'Obsessive cash management' is a top priority for the finance department.

The solution

Soldo provided an end-to-end solution:

1. Department and project cards for collective spending
2. Personal cards for employees who travel
3. A 'wallet' to allocate funds by currency, purpose, and user
4. Real-time reporting for effortless tracking of company spend and smoother month-end processes
5. Finance gained tighter control over costs, with detailed insights into spending patterns and trends
6. More time for strategic work, reducing errors and minimising fraud
7. Supported sustainable growth

The results

As Trevi has grown, it has increasingly found new and innovative ways to maximise the benefits of Soldo.
"With Soldo, you have top-quality reports in real time for complete control over costs and company expenses. The payment cards meet employee needs, and the switch from credit cards transformed our culture." Giovanni Grassi, Corporate Finance & Insurance Manager.
